Hello. I am a young design professional based out of New Delhi, India. With a formal background in Design, I am curious to learn from other professions around me and use those learnings and knowledge to critically build systems relevant to design briefs.

A generalist at heart, trying to transcend and traverse through disciplinary boundaries of design and beyond. Interested in exploring participatory methods, tools and collaborative ways of practicing and bringing change and impact through design.

Previously, my professional and academic experiences so far have been opportunities where I have learned to learn, unlearn, create, & critique my own and other process while working with different audiences and environments.
